President's Message: January 2013

It has been a year since I have been on the Board of Directors for the High Lonesome Ranch. That year has not been pleasant. Members of the Board have devoted countless hours to the business of the ranch and is under constant scrutiny of the Property Owners. However, when the Board, as required by our governing documents, works to get violations of our CCRs enforced, many property owners object. The rules set forth in our governing documents cover both Board Members and Property Owners. For one example: Property Owners have sold or transferred properties without notifying the Board and this has caused much extra work for the Board Members, especially the Board Secretary. When these violations of rules are brought forward by the Board, there are property owners who view the board as divisive.

There are several solutions to this problem:

1. The Board may relax all rules and regulations and watch the High Lonesome Ranch deteriorate to allow Property Owners the complete ability to do as they see fit with their property. This, I believe, would be in violation of the governing rules of the Association.
2. The Board may take a stronger look at enforcing all rules and CCRs making any change a more rigid procedure. This would just increase the 'them versus us' attitude of some Property Owners.
3. The Board may review the CCRs and make suggestions to give flexibility to Property Owners in the use of their property. This review would give Property Owners a voice in change the CCRs.
4. Cadden Management may be hired to run the ranch and conduct Board Meetings. This would eliminate any perceived appearance of favoritism.
5. The High Lonesome Ranch Property Owners Association could be dissolved with a vote of 75% of the members entitled to vote. All assets, to include common property and roads would be given to Cochise County and all assets would be given to a public agency to be used for purposes similar to those for which the HLRPOA Corporation was formed. This would leave each Property Owner on his own to do with his property as each sees fit.

I should not need to remind anyone that the Board Members are also Property Owners. Each Board Member acts to see that the responsibilities of the Ranch are conducted in an efficient manner. With elections coming, I strongly encourage every Property Owners to cast their votes.
